SPRING AT LAST?

The cold wet Spring has delayed the blooming of the Salmonberry and Red Flowering Currant on which the Rufous Hummingbirds feed during their Spring migration. They are about three weeks later than usual, but are here now and competing with the overwintering Annas for food and territory. We still have lots of Dark-eyed Juncos who are waiting for lower snow levels before they head up into the mountains.

GIFTS FOR MOM

In addition to an always welcome new feeder, Wendy has sourced a range of new items which are featured on the next pages. Beautiful lacquered wood serving trays, traditional concrete and stone bird baths, as well as stick in the ground glass bowl bird baths along with new glass bowl patterns. A new line of Sterling Silver earrings, pins and pendants will make ideal gifts, the Owl and Mushrooms are delightful. Another Baggallini Everything, Town tote, In-town bag, Paris or London bag or new Rolling Tote would make her day. How about a super bright flashlight the size of a roll of dimes, that recharges in your car accessory port, and runs for 9 hours between charges. At $14.95, every purse, car and pocket needs one! We have reduced the price of Bark Butter bricks to encourage customers to try this new treat for your birds. More than 100 species have been reported at Bark Butter feeders, and it contains added calcium for stronger egg and bone growth; especially welcome at this time of year. Our Mother's Day special this year is the new WBU High View hummingbird feeder which allows a better view of the hummer as it feeds. Lifetime warranty against breakage, built-in ant moat, and bee and wasp proof feeding ports make it a winner. Reg.$29.95, now 20% off for Mother's Day.

We look forward to seeing you.

Lise Brayham welcomed a very late but very welcome Rufous Hummingbird to her WBU feeder in North Van. The cold wet spring has delayed their arrival by two to three weeks.

Having got rid of the shell, this Steller's Jay gets to the heart of the matter in Greg and Skye's backyard at 12th & Helmlock.

Reader's Photos

Kyle and Melodie Gosling were camping at Porteau Cove when they discovered that they were sharing a space with an eagle who was lunching overhead. Meanwhile a pair of Oystercatchers were feeding down below at the shoreline.

Colourful glass bowls (Hydrangea shown) on stick-in-the-ground stakes. $29.95
Butterfly, Hummingbird, Dragonfly and Butterfly designs on glass patio bowls. $59.95

Lacquered wood serving trays in several stunning patterns. $89.95.

These tiny flashlights are the size of a roll of dimes, yet provide an exceptionally bright light. They last 9 hours per charge, and are re-charged in your car's accessory port (formerly known as a cigarette lighter). A must for every car, purse or pocket. $14.95

Originally designed to be smeared on tree trunks, we requested a suet size cake to fit all suet feeders. Over 100 species have been attracted by bark butter which also contains calcium for stronger eggs and bones. Special Introductory Price $3.95
